

Sharing anguish

■ Bangla bands Fossils and 4WD (picture above) came together on stage on October 29 with a group of HIV-affected people to make the city's youth aware of the threat of AIDS. Around 3,000 youngsters turned up at Nazrul Manch to support the cause. Organised by Sukriti Foundation, the event, titled Reach Out, served as a platform where many HIV-positives spoke about their problems. Eka Naw, a song composed by Fossils and Usha Uthup, saw many in the audience holding hands and taking a pledge not to look down upon those suffering from the dreaded disease.
